Erica Brand, Associate Director, California Climate Program · The Nature Conservancy

Erica Brand is a team leader working at the intersection of clean energy, land use, and natural resource policy. She currently works as Associate Director of the Climate Program at The Nature Conservancy in California. Her experience spans the non-profit, government, and utility sectors, having held roles at The Nature Conservancy, the California Energy Commission, and Pacific Gas & Electric Company. Erica holds a Master of Science in Environmental Management from the University of San Francisco and a Bachelor of Science in Biological Sciences from Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.